FROM THE EDITOR

I AM the type of guy who gets caught up...in just about everything. I overspend on vacation, I overeat during the holidays, and I overdrink (which isn't even a word) at corporate events. I've spent the equivalent of my kids' tuition at strip clubs, worked dumb-long hours on the job, and given way too much shit away because 'tis the season for blind generosity. Much to my detriment, I approach life with a stirring cocktail of appreciation and entitlement. I come from a place of yes. I live in the land of more.

Drugs? Yup. Late nights? Sure. An insane job that I don't know dick about? Well, you know the answer to that one.

So where am I now? Let's call it an existential hangover: Dehydrated, exhausted, lost, and spiraling—paying for my misdeeds, and second-guessing every decision I've made in my adult life. Strange, but I'm thankful for moments like these—life's little reminders about action, reaction, consequence, and mortality. Don't get me wrong, enduring a hangover is an absolute misery, but it's also a time to take inventory...and reconnect with perspective.

We've all been swept up and polarized by this wild hate-bender of an election...and are heading for one hell of a hangover. But while many people brace themselves for life after Trump, I don't think we're getting off that easy. There is no after Trump. Trump happened, and we can't take it back.

Yet in spite of it all, I am still hopeful that we will regain our collective perspective.

MAIL DOMINANCE

MADE MY DAY

I take exception to your comments about Clint—you could live a hundred lifetimes and never come close to his genius. Your derogatory remarks are ridiculous and unfounded. I agree that you are a puss. You would be well-advised to stick to what the mag is supposed to do instead of all of your ranting about your horseshit liberal-ass politics...and I never want to see another Penthouse with the likes of you there. You have screwed the whole mag up with a bunch of hogwash. Pathetic. Sickening. The next thing you know you'll have a dude on the cover with a guitar he can't play. Oh, your babes are lacking as of late, but thanks so much for putting "Bush is Back" on the cover. Yay! He was a GREAT PRESIDENT (unlike yourself). Cheers!

—Gary R., via email

[Ed: The very DNA of this magazine is rooted in ranting about politics and scandal and pop culture—be it horseshit liberal, horseshit conservative, or horseshit something else. Glad we touched a nerve.]

YES, HE SENT AN ACTUAL THANK-YOU CARD

Thank you for the November issue of Penthouse with many pictures of beautiful women with hairy pussies. They are very natural and I think it makes a woman more beautiful and sexy.

—Frank K., via USPS
